A Healthy Appreciation for Our Dedicated NURSES

During National Nurses Week we are reminded of just how important nurses are. It is thanks to their skill, hard work and compassion that we are able to receive quality healthcare.

Thank you, nurses, for your invaluable contributions to the world of healthcare.

Thank a nurse for national nurses week

The vital role nurses play in healthcare settings across the globe was perhaps never more apparent than in recent months. When COVID-19 was declared a pandemic by the World Health Organization in March 2020, nurses were on the front lines in the battle against the virus, and they have remained there since.

In recognition of the sacrifices nurses and other health care workers have made to help the sick, individuals across the globe have placed signs in their yards thanking essential workers. In addition, many more have taken to social media to highlight the lengths individual nurses have gone to while helping them or their loved ones who caught the virus or fought other illnesses.

Communities can follow such individuals’ lead by making collective efforts to thank the nurses who call their towns and cities home.

• Sponsor fundraising efforts. Town officials can help to organize a community-wide fundraising effort or a 50-50 raffle with fundraising effort or a 50-50 raffle with
